SPRING SALE 2019

17th Century Flemish School £16,000

The original 'Girl-on-a-Horse group' £13,000

Persian amber bead necklace £22,000

The Spring sale offered a diverse selection of antiques and collectables ranging from rare ceramics to violins and fountain pens. The top lot was an antique amber bead necklace that sold to a Turkish buyer after a lengthy bidding battle. Equally fought over was a Flemish oil on copper of Diana at rest. A bidder travelled over from Belgium to secure this lot but was thwarted at £16,000 by online bidding from Germany. Elsewhere the remarkable Dennis G. Rice Collection of early Derby porcelain achieved a hammer total of £100,000. Highlights included three extremely rare examples of a porcelain manufactory that he named, after this very figure, as 'The Girl-on-a-Horse Factory'. Otherwise known as Compass Marked or 'Transitional Derby' there are only 21 known examples, four of which are in London Museum Collections.
